

Danfoss Drives opens new factory in China

Danfoss Drives' new factory in China was officially opened by dancing dragons and speeches at a short ceremony on Friday, June 5th.

The new factory is situated about one kilometer from the present 9.000 m² factory in Haiyan, on the east coast of China close to Shanghai. The new building covers an area of 21,000 m².

The factory manufactures Holip frequency converters and in future it will also be the main factory for Danfoss Drives' Chinese activities.

